

MOTHER BURNED TO DEATH BY GAS; BABES SCORCHED

Mrs. Satin's Kimono Caught at Stove, Children Tried in Vain to Save Her.

SCREAMS BRING HELP.

While Neighbors Rescue Children, Two Others Are Hurt Trying to Escape.

Mrs. Clara Satin of No. 128 Ludlow street is dead in Gouverneur Hospital; her little daughter Fannie is at the same institution, seriously burned, and three other children with Mrs. Pauline Horowitz, Mrs. Yetta Erdreich and Mrs. Joseph Blatz are in the care of physicians. All received injuries late yesterday when a sleeve of Mrs. Satin's kimono caught fire from a gas stove.

The mother died early to-day. Satin, who is a hat trimmer, became so hysterical when she heard of her wife's fatal injuries that he ran screaming into the hospital and had to be put in a doctor's care.

While Mrs. Satin bustled herself in the kitchen Fannie, her ten-year-old brother Joseph; Rachel, seven, and Sammy, four, played with the baby, who sat in a high chair near the stove. Fannie and Joseph ran to their mother's assistance when the wrapper caught fire and she screamed. They ran at the flames with their bare hands as she ran in panic through the flat. A strong draught through the open kitchen window blew the flames to curtains and to a light, inflammable couch cover.

Mrs. Yetta Erdreich, who lives across the hall from the Satins, was attracted by the woman's screams. She ran into her neighbor's flat and reached the kitchen in time to save the baby, whose clothing was ablaze.

Joseph Blatz and Rebecca, his wife, smelled smoke at the same time they heard the cries of agony from across the hall. Blatz went to investigate. His wife, crazed with fear, began to clamor down the fire escape with her four-month-old child.

She reached the second floor in safety. Seeing flames shooting from a window above, she decided not to tarry and stepped on a swinging ladder which dangled above the rear yard. When she came to the end of the ladder, six feet above the pavement, she jumped. The woman landed on her right side, injuring her hip and fracturing her wrist. Baby was unharmed.

During the excitement Mrs. Pauline Horowitz and her husband were ascending the stairs toward the apartment of Mrs. Erdreich, whom they intended to visit. Hearing the cries above, Mrs. Horowitz shrieked:

"The house is burning!" Then she fainted. Her limp form, rolling downstairs, struck her husband and knocked him from his feet. They landed in a bruised heap on the floor below.

"TAKE CARE OF MAMMA FIRST," SAYS BURNED GIRL. Blatz found Mrs. Satin and five children ablaze, and Mrs. Erdreich struggling desperately to save the baby. He got a blanket and began systematically to extinguish the flames.

Dr. Reeves came in an ambulance from Gouverneur Hospital to attend Mrs. Satin and Fannie, who lay on the kitchen floor. The mother was unconscious. Fannie whispered to the doctor:

"Take care of mamma first. I didn't burn near as long as she did, honest."

Suffragists, Kicking On Her Diamond Heels, Won't Call Her Sister

Ida Husted Harper, From Muncie Herself, Only One to Hail With Joy Her Conversion of Mrs. Anthony, the Hoosier Sunburst, Who Has Put Premium on Smoked Glasses at Waldorf.

BY NIKOLA GREELEY-SMITH.
For this week at least the noise of history will continue to be made by the sound of Mrs. Charles H. Anthony's diamond studded heels going down the stairs of the Waldorf and the lamentations of New York suffragists going up to heaven.

For Mrs. Anthony, who has blazed a brilliant trail all the way from Muncie (Ind.) to New York (via Washington), has announced her conversion to the cause of suffrage, and opinion is very much divided as to whether or not a disciple who wears diamond heels is an accession to the cause.

Mrs. Ida Husted Harper, who enjoys the distinction of having convinced the human sunburst from Muncie (Ind.) that she wants a diamond studded vote, is of the opinion that Mrs. Anthony's conversion is a matter for unmixed congratulation.

But Mrs. Sofia Loebinger, leader of the militant suffragettes, who has ground a hand organ and invaded ball grounds and done everything else a very fertile imagination could devise to attract attention to her propaganda, says that diamond heels won't do.

"Really," said Mrs. Loebinger yesterday, "you know I'm so proud, and that I'll stand for almost anything that will help suffrage along, but I draw the line at diamond heels. They're too extreme even for me. Why, the woman must be crazy—crazy for notoriety, anything. There is no other reason or excuse for such vulgarity. Yes, vulgarity is the only word that describes it."

Mrs. Sarah Ruhlman, widow of Gus Ruhlman, at one time a well known heavy-weight prize fighter, was even more emphatic than Mrs. Loebinger.

EXTREME LIMIT OF INSANITY, SHE CALLS IT.
"Diamonds in her heels!" Mrs. Ruhlman remarked. "Well, that's the extreme limit of craziness. Maybe you don't know that Bob Fitzsimmons wears a diamond in his front tooth. I suppose that's all right for prize fighters and actresses who've got to get their names in the papers some way. Why doesn't Mrs. Anthony wear her diamonds in her teeth? Then people could say she had a dazzling smile, anyhow. But this diamond heel business makes me sick. Why, if I had money enough to put diamonds in my heels I'd give some of it to the poor. You know I was criticized for arranging a boxing bout for suffrage and for selling the 'Woman Voter' over the bar of my husband's saloon.

"All I've got to say is I've never had to star my heels, and I don't believe I would, no matter how much I might gain by it."

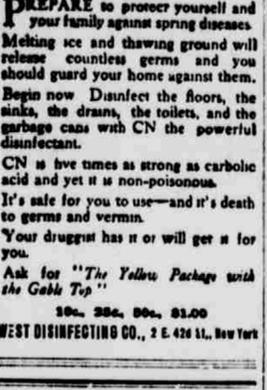

"I wish somebody would induce Bob Fitzsimmons to go call on that Mrs. Anthony at the Waldorf and show her his diamond fillings. Maybe she could learn enough from him to have her diamonds reset."

JUST A SPOILED CHILD, SAYS MRS. HARPER.
"I don't want to say a word of criticism of Mrs. Anthony," Mrs. Ida Husted Harper declared. "I hadn't seen her for twenty years until she came to one of my meetings in Washington recently, but my father and mother used to live next to her father and mother in Muncie (Ind.), and Mrs. Anthony is Just a spoiled child. She inherited a fortune and she married a fortune, and she can afford to wear diamond heels or anything else if she wants to. Maybe Mrs. Anthony will go back to Muncie and organize a suffrage club, and that will help. You see, so-called society men are all opposed to suffrage, and whenever a wife is converted that means her husband eventually will get in line, and of course we're dependent on the votes of men. I don't see what diamond heels have to do with suffrage anyhow."

Mrs. Harper's remarks made it so evident that she had joined the elect company of Roosevelt, Harriman and other "practical men" that in search of idealism I sought Mrs. Loebinger and Mrs. Ruhlman, and behold I found it. SUFFRAGE WOMEN DISGUSTED BY DIAMOND HEELS.

Incidentally, I discovered that both "progressives" of suffrage were entirely familiar with Mrs. Anthony's diamond heels and equally disgusted by them.

"I don't know what's the proper caper in Muncie (Ind.)," Mrs. Loebinger conceded, "but I know no caper with diamond heels would go in New York. Now, you've known me for a long time and you know I'm not too squeamish, but I don't want any diamond heels at my suffrage meetings. We don't want any diamond heels in our traps, not any diamond 'heelers.' What strains is Mrs. Anthony ahead of anybody?"

Sadly, I told Mrs. Loebinger I didn't know. And I reflected upon how fatally the human sunburst from Muncie (Ind.) has been misinterpreted. Alas, how sad it is to be a person who, unlike Achilles, has her talent in her heels, or whose strength, like Galathea, is "as the strength of ten" because her diamonds are of the purest water.

Continuing the Sale of Women's Silk Dresses at $7.65

This morning there were sixteen styles of excellent silk dresses here and all sizes in each style. The poorest of them was worth $12.75.

The styles varied from a plain dignified black taffeta dress with a corded front to a striking frock of striped messaline in light shade with large round collar and revers of green satin, covered with lace.

It is more than probable that a good selection of these unusually low-priced dresses will be here for those who come early tomorrow.

Suits of Changeable Taffeta are very much in vogue. We illustrate a charming suit here in the darker shades, at $18.75. Note the fashionable quilting on jacket and skirt. Another model in lighter shades has a wide collar and revers, with over-collar of lace. This is $17.50.
Subway floor, Old Building.

Young Women's Cotton Dresses

One model in the popular white cotton corduroy, trimmed with wide band of blue embroidered in white.
Another in percale, lavender, white or blue, with piping and embroidery on collar and revers in contrasting shade.
Both $3 each. Sizes 14, 16 and 18 years.

Young Women's Suits are coming in and going out too fast for detail mention. But depend upon finding an excellent selection here at $10 upward, including the jaunty Norfolk models. Silk-lined coats.
Spring Coats for girls of all ages in very large variety, at $3.75 upward. Serges, worsteds, mixtures—light and dark, plain and trimmed.
Subway floor, Old Building.

Boys' Russian and Sailor Suits With Two Pairs of Knickerbockers Extra at $5.50

The "extra" may be construed as referring to the second pair of knickerbockers, if you please.

For the suits are quite as good as one could fairly expect, with one pair of trousers, at the price, $5.50.

Or it might refer to the extra quality of the cheviot of which they are made—all wool to the last thread, by our own test.

Or it might even mean the extra care used in making these suits as they should be to withstand the pull and the strain that a little boy's suit is bound to suffer.

Finally, it might refer to the extra little thing for Easter that the mother may buy with the money she saves by getting a suit as good as these, with two pairs of trousers, for $5.50.

As you please, as long as you profit by the opportunity. If HE needs a light coat, here are a few left of the $6.50 and $7.50 Raincoats, selling at $4.85.
Subway floor, Old Building.

Women's Tan Lisle Stockings 18c, instead of 35c

4,560 pairs of imported fashioned stockings, with garter tops, in three shades of tan. Excellent quality and all perfect. We have no other imported lisle stockings at less than 35c.
Subway floor, Old Building.
